About the British Council:

The British Council builds connections, understanding and trust between people in the UK and other countries through arts and culture, education and the English language. The Council work in two ways – directly with individuals to transform their lives, and with governments and partners to make a bigger difference for the longer term, creating benefit for millions of people all over the world.

The British Council helps young people to gain the skills, confidence and connections they are looking for to realise their potential and to participate in strong and inclusive communities. The British Council supports them to learn English, to get a high-quality education and to gain internationally recognised qualifications. The British Council's work in arts and culture stimulates creative expression and exchange and nurtures creative enterprise.

The British Council connects the best of the UK with the world and the best of the world with the UK. These connections lead to an understanding of each other's strengths and of the challenges and values that we share. This builds trust between people in the UK and other nations which endures even when official relations may be strained.

The British Council works on the ground in more than 100 countries. In 2019-20 the British Council connected with 80 million people directly and with 791 million people overall, including online and through our broadcasts and publications.

The British Council is funded by a grant-in-aid from the UK government and with significant additional income from partnership agreements, contracts, teaching and exams.

Founded in 1934, the British Council is a UK charity governed by Royal Charter and a UK public body.
